

THE BLACK GEM COLLECTION IS INSPIRED BY THE RARE BLACK GEMSTONES
THAT HIDE DEEP BENEATH THE SOIL AND WATERS OF THE WEST INDIES
— WHERE THE VERY ESSENCE OF RUM WAS FIRST AWAKENED.

BLACK SPINEL

The Black Spinel is one of the rarest gemstones that can be found deep in the ground of the West Indies and Central America. The same fertile soil that also provides nourishment and minerals to the sugarcanes used in our 'Black Gem Collection'. The mysterious Black Spinel is said to dispel sadness, induce calmness and re-establish relationships. Quite like the enjoyment of the luscious

A.H. Riise Black Spinel in company of good friends. Each batch, each bottle - a unique gem, marked with a number to state its singularity and rareness.

A.H. Riise Black Spinel has an alcohol strength of 46.1% and is available in a limited quantity of 5,570 numbered bottles, which makes this rare gem extremely collectible.

Nose	A delicately refined aroma, unveiling notes of vanilla candies, soft creamy caramel, and dried plums
Taste	Bold flavor, powerful old oak, significant sweetness but also a noticeable dryness. Umami with saddle leather and intense fruit
Finish	Long and lingering, warm spices. Subtle orange notes that linger
Color	Polished light teak wood with a warm glow
